

Safety Awards Celebration

The TRMA Annual Awards Dinner once again brought together industry leaders, safety professionals, and member organizations for an evening dedicated to recognizing excellence, celebrating progress, and reinforcing a shared commitment to safety. Building on strong traditions, this year's dinner showcased even greater achievements across the TRMA community.

One of the most notable accomplishments recognized during the evening was a combined OSHA Total Recordable Incident Rate of 0.331 among TRMA plants and contractors—a five-year low. This milestone reflects not only strong performance, but a deep-rooted culture of safety that continues to define TRMA members.

TRMA's commitment to collaboration and partnership was also on full display. A record 11 companies received the Partnership Award, marking the largest group of recipients in the award's history. This achievement underscores the strength of cooperation between TRMA member companies and their shared pursuit of safety excellence.

The evening's highest honor, the Platinum Award for Contractor Safety Performance, was awarded to Meade, recognizing exceptional performance in high-risk environments and a consistent commitment to best-in-class safety practices.

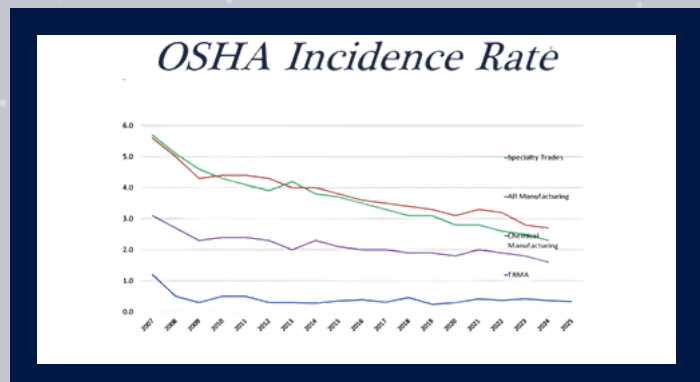

As in years past, the awards dinner was more than a celebration—it was a powerful reminder of what can be achieved when organizations prioritize safety, invest in their people, and work together toward a common goal. The continued progress of TRMA members sets a standard not only for our region, but for the industry as a whole.

The evening also celebrated the future of the industry. Nicolas Raclawski was awarded the TRMA Scholarship, supporting his continued education and honoring TRMA's commitment to developing the next generation of manufacturing professionals.

Recognition of individual excellence was a highlight of the night. Stephen Hassett of Starcon received the Next Generation Safety Stand-Out Award, acknowledging his leadership, innovation, and impact as an emerging safety professional. The Chairperson's Award for Distinguished Safety Achievement was presented to Scott Del Rio of Brock Industrial Services, honoring his outstanding contributions and unwavering dedication to advancing safety performance across the industry.

Congratulations to all of this year's award recipients and honorees. Your leadership and dedication continue to move safety forward.
